SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.

1. A permanent antiaircraft gun position was built, probably in 1954, south of Pilsen on the east side of the Pilsen-Doudlevce-Litice road. The position is just by the road about 300 - 500 meters south of the point where the road branches off to Radobyce. 25X1
2. About six AA guns of various calibers were observed on the site. The men belonging to the gun crews wore khaki uniforms with antiaircraft artillery badges on their shoulderboards. 25X1
3. Searchlights were not visible from the road, but at night three beams of light could often be seen in the area.
4. Electric current is supplied by a new cable on wooden masts; the cable originates at Doudlevce. 25X1
5. In September 1955, soldiers were seen removing earth on the top of Hurka Hill, 376 meters, southwest of the AA gun position, and army trucks were bringing in building material. Source does not know whether this construction had any connection to the AA gun position.

Legend for the sketches

1. Wire fence on concrete posts, extending about 100 meters along the Pilsen-Doudlevce road. 25X1
2. Entrance with a small wooden guard room.
3. Two AA guns of about 75-millimeter caliber and barrels 2.5-3 meters long with muzzle brakes, in concrete emplacements.
4. Four 4-barreled heavy AA machine guns, approximately in the middle of the site. The barrels are about 2 - 3.5 meters long.
